The Library of Professor Eric G. Carlson

Part I: Art of France from the French Revolution to the End of the Third Republic, 1790-1940. General Reference Works and Monographs on Artists, with a special emphasis on prints and printmaking

The art historian and art dealer Eric G. Carlson (1940-2016) was a noted specialist in French and American prints and drawings of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. A mediaevalist by training (Ph.D. Yale University), and professor at the State University of New York at Purchase from 1978 to 2006, Carlson brought a scholar's acumen to his exploration of lesser-known fields and figures of French art. His library reflects this, being exceptionally rich not just on the major artists of the era, but on the many painters and printmakers who remain to this day little known to the general public. Its coverage of the art of Romanticism, Realism, and Post-Impressionism, with very impressive concentrations on Géricault, Delacroix, Courbet, Degas and Gauguin, among others, is matched by a fascinating depth in the Symbolist and Nabi movements and the School of Pont-Aven, and the myriad Academic and Salon artists, illustrators and caricaturists who flourished between the start of the Second Empire and the end of the Third Republic. The library is unusually complete and sophisticated in the documentation and critical study of all aspects of the period, with rare exhibition and auction catalogues, and scarce early monographs, as well as the latest academic scholarship. Also included in it is a substantial component on the history and literature of World War I, and its repercussions on French society.

Part II: Rare Illustrated Books and Print Portfolios, ca. 1850-1930

The astonishing richness of the rare illustrated books and portfolios in the Carlson Library makes it an important resource for art-historical research, and an ideal candidate for a major exhibition on aspects of the graphic arts of France from the mid-nineteenth century to the advent of the second World War. In it are superb holdings of great French Romantic comic artists and caricaturists (including volumes with original drawings and watercolors by Cham, Grévin, Lhéritier, and Henry Monnier), of Post-Impressionist, Symbolist and fin de siècle artists (including important rareties by Maximilien Luce, Félix Buhot and Fernand Dumont), fine examples of the Etching Revival and woodcut artists at the turn of the century (such as Auguste Lepère and Gabriel Belot), splendid coverage of Art Déco book illustration (with outstanding examples by Jean-Émile Laboureur, among others), and of interwar Modernism (including well-chosen portfolios of original prints by Stanley William Hayter and Joseph Hecht). The history of French illustration, from the mid-nineteenth-century to the interwar era, is presented in great depth, and in all its aspects, as is commercial graphic design and decoration.

Perhaps the single most remarkable focus of the rare books in Carlson Library is in its astonishing coverage of World War I as seen by contemporary French artists and illustrators: by far the greatest collection on this subject that we have ever seen, and very possibly the most important private collection of it in the world. With hundreds of rare books and portfolios, it assembles a fascinating, museum-quality survey of dozens of significant artists and their response to this epochal event, and demonstrates the wealth of possibilities for complex historical and cultural insights that the visual arts can provide. Also of great interest is the inclusion of political cartoons and propaganda, war photography, publications and ephemera of military and civilian theatre and entertainment, and children's books relating to the war.

THE LIBRARY OF PROF. ERIC G. CARLSON: PART TWO: ILLUSTRATED BOOKS

- Folio. Publisher's dec. boards, with designs by the artist, 1/4 cloth. New fitted cloth clamshell case. No. 2 of the limited edition of 60 hand-numbered copies, with manuscript justification in pen by the artist at the foot of the front cover, signed and dated 1896. The portfolio lacking ties, otherwise very fresh. Atelier Béjot stamp on the interior of the front cover.
[Paris (Paul Lemaire), 1896].
- 68 BELLANGER, CAMILLE. Le dessin aux cours préparatoires et dans les écoles militaires. 39, (3)pp. 42 illus. (1 folding hors texte). Sm. 4to. Publisher's boards, 1/4 cloth. This copy with a sheaf of 8 fine, small, finished original topographic drawings by the artist in ink (5 with additions in color), exactly of the character and scale of those illustrated in the book, but apparently prepared for a different publication, with occasional corrections in white, and figure numbers indicated for the illustrations. Three are signed, and two dated 1918. Also laid in are 6 color proofs for the reproduction of a patriotic illustration by Bellanger, together with an autograph letter to an unnamed recipient, signed by him, June 1919, regarding these. Though formally written (on mourning stationery), its many revisions suggest it was retained as a draft, and not sent. Finally, also inserted in the volume is an original photograph of Bellanger (as identified in pencil on the back) and a group of young soldiers seated, sketching, in a field.
Paris (Librairie Garnier Frères), n.d.

(4)pp. (single sheet, folding), with multi-tone original woodcut cover by Georges Bruyer, printed on tan card stock. Sm. 4to. Self-wraps. New fitted cloth clamshell case. This copy of the banquet menu is signed and inscribed in pencil by the artist beneath the woodcut, and accompanied by 5 working trial proofs on chine (irregular margins). Paris, 1924.
- 109 BUHOT, FÉLIX. Japonisme. Dix eaux-fortes. 10 original etchings and aquatints, 1874-1883 (Bourcard/Goodfriend 11-20). Bourcard/Goodfriend's third states, except B/G 11 (first state), B/G 12 (fourth state), B/G 17 and 20 (second state), and B/G 19 (only state). Sheet size: 355 x 260 mm. (ca. 14 x 10 1/4 inches). Together with this, as issued, two chemises each reprising the first and last etchings (both with B/G 11 in third state, with letters). Inner chemise: 540 x 375 mm. (ca. 21 1/8 x 14 5/16 inches), with the etchings here printed in sanguine on brown heavy wove stock; apricot silk ties (fragmentary). Outer chemise: 580 x 404 mm. (ca. 22 7/8 x 15 7/8 inches), with the etchings printed in black, on a coarser brown heavy wove stock (triple-folding). Folio. New fitted cloth clamshell case. Édition de tête: ex. no. 6 of 50 copies on Japon, from the limited edition of 150 numbered copies, here numbered in pencil on the first plate, and on both the inner and outer chemises (within the platemark of the front cover etchings).
A landmark publication of French japonisme. "The preeminent critic of the etching movement, Philippe Burty, took an early interest in Buhot's printmaking. In late 1874 he commissioned Buhot to make etchings of several Japanese objects in his renowned personal collection. These three-dimensional objects were to be done in the manner of Jules Jacquemart, the unchallenged master of this genre, although Buhot gave a warmth of interpretation to his prints lacking in the more clinical perfection of Jacquemart.... These Japonisme prints were Buhot's first entries in the Salon of 1875 and were well received by Japanese art enthusiasts like Louis Gonse. The series was finally published as a portfolio in 1883" (Fisher).
The etchings tipped onto fine modern Bristol mounts, the interior of the inner chemise lined with a second paper.
An historic presentation copy, inscribed in pencil on the inner chemise 'à Monsieur Edmond Sagot/ en souvenir des bons soins qu'il a bien voulu ... à cette édition/ Félix Buhot gr.,' with the artist's personal cypher stamped in red above.
Paris, 1883.

- 119 CHAM [Amédée-Charles-Henry de Noé, comte]. Original sketches. 70 original sketches with manuscript text, in black inks (some with underdrawing in pencil), mounted on 44 loose leaves of commercial wove paper (4 unmounted). 5 of the sketches are signed Cham in brown ink. The first seven mounts are intermittently numbered in ink 18-28, the rest intermittently numbered in pencil, 29-77. Mounts: 215 x 166 mm. (ca. 8 1/2 x 6 1/2 inches). Sm. 4to. New fitted cloth clamshell case. An uproarious collection of cartoon drawings with comic texts, very hastily dashed off as sketches for political and social satires. Settings and topics include the Bureau des passeports, Exposition d'horticulture, Classe de langue universelle, Salle du jury de peinture, Ménagerie de M. Charles, Ministère des affaires étrangères, and Bureau de la presse, featuring a Prince L'empereur, cows in balloon ascent, Asian dignitaries in turbans, and cross-section of contemporary society. In one drawing, reference is made to the "crise de 1852." The series is accompanied by a leaf inscribed "'A Monsieur [?], souvenir/ affectueux de son ami/ Cham." This would appear to be the flyleaf of the disassembled carnet, as its verso is marbled. The courtesy signatures on the first five drawings may well have been added at the time of presentation. [Paris, 1850s?].

Sq. 8vo. Dec. blue wraps., printed in green with linocuts by Gourmont. Unspecified very small limited edition, printed on uncut laid paper. One of the most beautiful publications of Gourmont's and Alfred Jarry's short-lived review "L'Ymagier," "Phocas" is a fable of a youthful gardener, martyred for his faith in fourth-century Sinope. Gourmont's visual imagery is meant to evoke the early Christian mode of the text, in a primitivized style drawn from Gauguin and the Pont-Aven artists, particularly Charles Filiger and Jarry, whose "Minutes de sable mémorial," illustrated with woodcuts of his own, had just appeared. "Phocas," plaquette in-seize raisin tirée à un très petit nombre, est aujourd'hui l'un des opuscules les plus rares de la collection gourmontienne" (B. Guégan and J. Mégret, "Remy de Gourmont typographe"). A very fine copy.

Third Republic, he produced a popular revue, "Les jolies filles de Grévin." His style is often seen to anticipate the work of Forain. "Un esprit rieur, pimenté de grivoiserie, caractérise ses meilleurs dessins et leur conserve aujourd'hui encore une certaine saveur" (Philippe Roberts-Jones).

The eventual publication of the articles in this album has yet to be traced. Its contents are as follows: "L'oiseau rare. Monologue," by A. Sm. folio. Orig. dec. colored woodcut portfolios, designed by the artist. New fitted cloth case. One of 1000 copies on vélin from the edition of 1050, the woodcuts executed by the artist and colored under his supervision. A remarkable copy including 17 full-scale original ink wash drawings by Hermann-Paul for the woodcuts (5 with additions in white gouache, 1 with color). Drawings ca. 320 x 242 mm. (ca. 12 5/8 x 9 3/4 inches) on buff wove paper. All are stamped on the verso "Vente Galerie de Chartres, 23-10-2000," the Hermann-Paul atelier sale. Apart from their powerful graphic vigor, the drawings are striking both for their correspondence to the finished woodcuts, and for their occasional differences from them, which show the development of the artist's conception. One drawing is not visibly related to a specific woodcut. Some are in reverse of the prints, and others not.

- 276 LHÉRITIER [Thomas Romain]. Comiques du Palais-Royal. 16 original watercolors, each signed "Lh" in pencil within the composition, tipped onto windowed album leaves. Average dimensions: 200 x 148 mm. (ca. 7 7/8 x 5 3/4 inches). Contemporary full gilt embossed leather (partial split at one hinge, light rubbing). New fitted cloth clamshell case. This cavalcade of finished watercolor caricatures consists of a unified series of 15 compositions, each on the same buff-colored paper, mounted within captioned ruled borders.
The comic artist Romain Thomas, who styled himself Lhéritier (1809-1885) had a dual career as an artist and an actor, which is encompassed in this series of caricatures of leading figures of the Palais Royal, one of the principal theatres of the Paris stage. The subjects include Lhéritier himself, Brasseur, Grassot, Hyacinthe, Gil-Perès, and Luquet--some in several different roles--as well as the artist Henry Monnier.
The sixteenth water color here would appear to be a later addition to the album, being on a different paper stock of slightly larger dimension, signed in full (rather than initialled), and without caption or frame.
[Paris, circa 1870].

- 300 MONNIER, HENRY. Les bas-fonds de la société. (4), 267, (3)pp. 4to. Publisher's full vellum over boards (hairline split at hinge expertly conserved). Fitted cloth slipcase. Edition limited to 200 numbered copies, printed on uncut Hollande. An extraordinary copy, extra-illustrated with 39 superb original drawings by Monnier, including 16 in watercolor, 16 in pen and ink, 4 in wash, 2 in pencil, and 1 in charcoal, and of which 25 full-page or mounted as full-page. All but two are signed or initialled by the artist, and virtually all of them dated. The volume carries a presentation inscription "à mon excellent ami Nène/ Henry Monnier/ 1er janvier 1878" on the verso of a preliminary leaf, and nearly every drawing, even the most incidental, is inscribed by Monnier to Nène. Most of the drawings which are executed directly on the pages of the book are dated in 1873 and 1874 (two in 1876); those that are bound in, or tipped-in, date as early as 1838, with several from the 1860s, though most are from the 1870s. Throughout, the drawings, character studies and caricatures both, display Monnier's work at its peak, full of animation and acuity, unflinching candor, and the most touching sympathy.
Also added to this copy (as is often the case with this edition) is an impression of Félicien Rops' renowned etched frontispiece for "Les bas-fonds de la société, par Joseph Prud'homme," mounted on the front flyleaf of the volume; as well as a second etched decorative half-title for the work, not by Monnier, and unsigned. Secondary presentation inscription, 1881, from Georges Cain, grandson of P.J. Nène, to monsieur Secrétan, (presumably the collector Pierre-Eugène Secrétan) inside front cover.
Together with this, a copy of "Le Rire" Nouvelle Série No. 70 (4 juin 1904), in which is reproduced a full-length portrait drawing by Monnier of Joseph Prudhomme (indistinctly dated 1860) very similar to one in the present volume (dated 1873, and finished in watercolor).

One of 300 copies on papier bouffant, from the limited edition of 316 in all. A rare livre d'artiste from the "SIC" milieu, with extraordinary woodcuts by Chana Orloff and verse by her short-lived husband Ary Justman. The sculptor and printmaker Chana Orloff (1888-1968), born in the Ukraine, moved to Paris in 1910, and was active in Parisian Cubist circles in the teens and twenties, exhibiting at the Salon d'Automne beginning in 1913, and at the Salon des Indépendants. "Although influenced to some extent by Cubism, Modigliani, and the vogue for the primitive, she soon established a distinctive idiom: essentially naturalistic, but tending to a decorative simplification of form and a love of smooth rounded surfaces. In the early 1920s, Orloff gained a considerable reputation for her portrait sculptures of the Parisian cultural élite" (M. Bohm-Duchen, in The Dictionary of Art). Her woodcuts, which exploit the grain of the block with remarkable effectiveness, are instantly recognizable. Some of them appeared in "SIC," which published this book, and to whose editor, Pierre Albert-Birot, it is dedicated. Of "Réflexions poétiques," Donna Stein remarks that "The most fertile period of Cubist book publication occurred after World War I, when adherents of the style had achieved some commercial success, but were no longer a coherent group. Concurrently there was a widespread revival of the art of the woodcut.... Wood was Orloff's favorite sculptural material, and she was able to transfer the organic sense of Cubist deformation onto her woodblock in the creation of one particularly noble and psychologically penetrating portrait made for this book." Cover lightly foxed. Presentation copy, inscribed by Orloff on the title-page, in 1921.

- 335 (RASSENFOSSE) Kahn, Gustave, et al. L'almanach des poètes pour l'année 1897. 123, (3)pp. 63 illus. and vignettes by Armand Rassenfosse, in olive green. Printed on uncut fine laid paper. Sq. sm. 8vo. Dec. wraps., designed by Rassenfosse, printed in brown. Texts by Gustave Kahn, Stuart Merrill, Francis Jammes, Francis Viéél-Griffin, Albert Mockel, Henri de Régnier, Robert de Souza, A.-Ferdinand Herold, André Fontinas, Camille Mauclair, Émile Verhaeren, and André Gide. A handsome fin-de-siècle publication with Symbolist ornaments and designs throughout by Rassenfosse, a protégé of Rops who was also motivated by political sympathy for the laboring classes. "In its association of the avant-gardist styles of neo-impressionism and symbolism with the political concerns and working class subjects of 'l'art social,' Rassenfosse's work illustrates a response typical of the Liège artists" (Les XX and the Belgian Avant-Garde). The Mercure de France's "L'almanach des poètes" was published between 1896 and 1898. Noël Arnaud has suggested that Alfred Jarry's exclusion from these may have prompted him to publish his own "Almanach du Père Ubu" in 1899 and 1901. Light wear. Blind-embossed ownership stamp.

First issue, with dust jacket printed on waxed freezer paper (meant to resemble the paper on a cracker box). "In...'Crackers,' a series of photographs describe [an] absurd incident in which a male performer (Larry Bell) makes a salad on a hotel bed, and invites a woman to undress and recline on it. The protagonist then retires to his own hotel room to eat a box of crackers" (Lyons). "The book is caught between an excess and an economy of means which seems incidental. The beauty of the book is in its stable page after page of single full-sized images--the photos always fill the frame and are printed on an appropriately slippery coated stock" (Drucker).

"Royal Road Test' (1967), made in collaboration with Mason Williams and Patrick Blackwell, which documents the road test given to an old Royal typewriter by hurling it out of the window of a moving car, parodies road test reports and resembles a slim manual sold with a mechanical device. It also demonstrates an ironic affinity with books which land artists and conceptual artists have produced in order to record their activities in remote locations" (Clive Phillpot, in Lyons). - 404 Vitta, Émile. Farandole de Pierrots. Poésies. Illustrations de WILLETTE. 31, (1)pp. 15 illus. Sm. 4to. Marbled boards, 3/4 cloth. Orig. dec. wraps. by the artist bound in. A deluxe copy on Japon, with a suite of the illustrations in red on Chine. No justification is provided. Paris (Léon Vanier), 1890.
- 405 WILLETTE, ADOLPHE. Ohé! Les moeurs! 8 lithographs, loose as issued, within chemise (with 2 additional lithographs, on front and back). Contents loose, as issued. Lrg. 4to. Dec. illus. chemise. New fitted cloth clamshell case. Both the chemise and all plates are individually stamped "42" at lower left, seemingly a limitation number. Printed on japon, this publication would appear to be a deluxe separate issue of the lithographs. "Ohé les moeurs! Chansons satiriques. 1re série," a musical score for voice and piano, subtitled "Douze lithographies de Willette," was published in Paris in 1895, with music by Paul Hucks, and lyrics apparently by A. Sémiane. With only 8 (or possibly 10) lithographs, this copy would seem to be incomplete, apart from the music and lyrics which may or may not have been included. A later edition of the score (or possibly a later "série" of it), from the same publisher, appeared in 1910. [Paris (G. Ondet), 1895?].
